

Christians Becoming Public Enemy #1 —Worldwide

The British Telegraph newspaper recently reported that Christians suffer greater hostility across the world than any other religious group. It quoted a study that warned that Western political leaders have been “blind” to the extent of the persecution in Africa, Asia and the Middle East.

Militant Islam is identified as the most dangerous threat. Christian converts in Muslim countries are subjected to severe

Tracts Still Work —Even at 55 Below Zero

Working in Prudhoe Bay as a cook, I saw this comic on a table in the room of a high-level engineer. It was The Beast. Every day, I snuck in reading a few pages and then ordered from the back page. Years later I met the man at a Christian function and, lo and behold, he told me, “That was left for you. You were SUPPOSED to take it.” Who knew. I mean, an ARCO executive, something missing from his room?

Later, between North Slope jobs, I drove a cab. Every day I handed out 10-15 tracts. I was the highest earning cab driver every single day, a female in minus 55 degree conditions in Fairbanks. So many even requested me just to see any new tracts. It drove the cab office nuts. They tried to fire me, but the co-owner bought a brand new cab that only I drove.

Once a ride wanted me to take him to the woods. I probed —he was going to commit suicide, BUT I had the exact, persecution including prison and execution. If a country allows a sizable group of Muslims to settle there, they soon begin to request special treatment in line with Islamic law that tends to marginalize Bible believers.

If something like the Arab Spring rises up and Islam gains political control, Christians are soon made to feel very unwelcome. Developments in Egypt, Libya, Iraq, Afghanistan, and Syria are recent examples. Hundreds of thousands of “non-Muslim” refugees have fled these countries in recent months.

This persecution has been largely ignored by Western governments and media because of a basic misconception about Islam. In the West, the separation of religion and politics is held sacred. This blinds leaders from seeing that, in Islam, they are one and the same.

It is now becoming obvious that tolerance of the “religion” of Islam is a Trojan Horse. Muslim leaders are dedicated to using freedom of religion to gain political dominance and then impose Sharia law. It is easy to see what happens then to Christians by looking at Sharia-dominant Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq and Afghanistan.

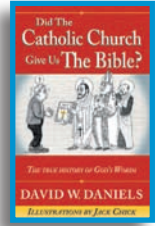

The study further points out: “The blind spot displayed by governments and other influential players is causing them to squander a broader opportunity. Religious freedom is the canary in the mine for human rights generally.”

This only hints at a huge fact that most historians ignore: Nowhere else in the history of mankind has the common man enjoyed the freedoms and prosperity as he has during the “Christian” era. Only after the Reformers threw off the bondage of Roman Catholicism, and published the King James Bible, did true freedom “ring.”

Today, that “canary in the mine” is slowly choking to death on the poisonous gas of godless humanism. If we do not recognize the danger and return to obedience to the God of the Bible, He will repeat His Old Testament strategy.

When Israel wandered into idolatry, God sent pagan nations to punish them. Do we not see the hoards on the horizon? Do we not understand the implications of 9-11, Boston Marathon, shoe bomber, and Fort Hood? Are not these “terrorists” the advance sappers of the invading pagan army? God will not long bless a nation that legalizes sins like abortion and sodomy. At some point His attitude turns and He becomes our enemy, just as He did to Israel when they forsook Him.

The study also talks about a fear among oppressive regimes that Christianity is a “Western creed” which can be used to undermine them. This fear is justified because when the common man realizes what Christ has done for him, he will enact governments that protect religious freedom and throw off tyrants just like America’s founding fathers rose up against Brit-

Philippine Prisons Open to Chick Tracts

The accompanying photos are from the Philippines where Rodelio Mallari has spent 25 years establishing a diverse ministry of literature, gospel recordings, radio, and street preaching. His most recent expansion is into local prisons where 38,000 inmates are held. Mallari has translated more than two dozen Chick Tracts into Tagalog and several other Philippine languages. Several of these are available on the Chick Publications website for others to order.

His mission operates a small print shop that produces Chick tracts, Bible portions, and other discipleship materials.

Now that the prisons have opened to them, Mallari hopes to stock "mini-libraries" in each facility with tracts and literature. The most recent translation project was the tract, The Bull, to be used by Mallari in the local prisons.

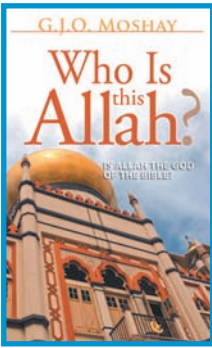

The Chick Missions Fund recently supplied 10,000 copies of The Bull for Mallari's prison ministry.

Mallari is just one of many missionaries that the Missions Fund has helped multiply their outreach in their fields. If you would like to help, see page 11 for more information.

Beyond 'Don't Ask; Don't Tell'

Even before the President cleared open homosexuals in the military, Congressman Randy Forbes claims he has been “monitoring a steady stream of religious discrimination complaints over the past four years from Christian soldiers.” Forbes says that the soldiers are telling him: “We’re afraid of going to church, we’re afraid to be seen praying, we’re afraid that would hurt our careers, our promotions.” Other disturbing developments were cited:

- Commanders barred from disclosing any programs that are tied to the Chaplaincy or any programs involving religion;
- A Navy directive that banned Bibles at Walter Reed Hospital;
- An Army Reserve training program that listed Evangelical Christians and Catholics as examples of religious extremism;
- An Army email that listed prominent Christian ministries like the Family Research Council and American Family Association as “domestic hate groups.”

As on a global scale, homosexual activists take an inch and then reach for a mile.

The Devil has been trying to pin the label “hate” on Bible believers for a long time. Preachers and publishers who tried ain’s King George. However, there is also a false “church,” ruled by a pope, that has always tried to replace one “oppressive regime” with another one, posing as Christian. In the past, Jesuit “missionaries” invaded countries in the Orient and tried to take them over politically. This has added to the fear of “Christians” and hampered the work of true Bible believers.

As we watch these clouds gathering, we need to redouble our efforts at getting out the truth. Gospel tract saturation has almost always preceded revival.

Soulwinners, we have much work to do.

to warn of Roman Catholicism’s pagan, unbiblical teachings of a wafer god, Virgin Mary goddess, and purgatory have been called hate mongers for decades. Anyone who spoke against “Christian unity” (ecumenism) was “dividing the brethren.”

Now, with the rising concern about “domestic terrorism,” there is a concerted effort to paint biblical “literalists” as “angry fundamentalists.” The 14-page Army email mentioned above, documented groups the military considers to be anti-gay, anti-immigrant and anti-Muslim. Among the other groups mentioned are Neo-Nazis, Racist Skinheads, White Nationalists and the Ku Klux Klan.

The email accused the “Christian Right” of “engaging in the crudest type of name-calling, describing LGBT people as ‘perverts’ with ‘filthy habits’ who seek to snatch the children of straight parents and ‘convert’ them to gay sex,” he wrote. In a way — guilty as charged.

God calls homosexual behavior an “abomination” that truly “perverts” the “normal use of the woman.” (See Lev. 18:22 and Romans 1.) Homosexual sex involves practices that are grossly unclean. And the laws that require glorification of homosexuality in the schools, such as Harvey Milk Day in California, seems to be specifically designed to “convert [the students] to gay sex.”

The hate campaign against Christian organizations is becoming more dangerous. A few weeks ago a gunman showed up at the offices of the Family Research Council

Gunpowder and Your KJV Bible

While the U.S. has its Fourth of July, complete with fireworks and revelry, England also has November 5 and it appears their celebration outdoes ours. All over the country “bonfire societies” field multiple parades complete with massive firework displays. One example in the news recently was a small town of 16,000 called Lewes, which hosts some 60,000 visitors who join the festivities.

So, what is so special about November 5? It’s Guy Fawkes Day!

Those who know the history of the holiday, know the significance of the “gunpowder plot” that got Fawkes and some of his buddies executed. But, if Fawkes had succeeded in igniting the fuse to 36 barrels of gunpowder, you and I might have a very different Bible to read today.

The year was 1605, just 6 years before the publication of the King James Bible that became the standard English scriptures for some 400 years. King James had been petitioned by the Puritans to authorize the translation of a “new and completely accurate” English Bible. He immediately commissioned over 50 scholars from Oxford and Cambridge to begin the work. The men chosen were the most learned of their day not only in linguistics but biblical theology. Many of them were fluent in up to 14 languages.

All this was happening in the middle of a pitched battle between the leaders of the Reformation and the Vatican. And the Bible was the prize in that war. For over 100 years the Reformers had fought to print the Bible in the language of the people. The Vatican had commissioned the Jesuits and the Dominicans with the task of destroying those Bibles. Politics had become one of the battlefields with the rulers of England alternating between Protestant and Catholic.

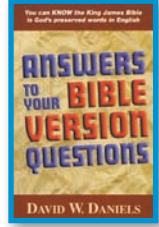

At this point, King

James was Protestant and almost literally had a bull’s eye on his back. Jesuit agents cooked the “gunpowder plot” to tunnel under the Parliament building and set off a massive explosive while it was in session. Their hope was to kill King James and as many of the Members of Parliament as possible.

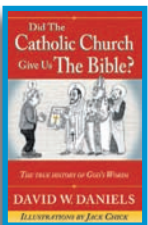

Guy Fawkes was enlisted by the pope to carry out the plan. He and about half-a-dozen other men started the tunnel and eventually positioned 36 barrels of gunpowder in place. In their attempt to carry out their plan, they met one problem after another so that, looking back, the Lord was surely toying with their little plan. During the digging, they hit an unexpected wall underground. But a cellar was discovered that gave them the required access. Next, Parliament delayed meeting for several months and the powder got wet and had to be replaced. Finally one of the men wrote a letter warning a Catholic friend to stay away from the building on a certain date. The letter ended up in the hands of the king who discovered the scheme just hours before the targeted meeting.

November 5 was legislated a national day of thanksgiving for deliverance from “papists.” Today, it is celebrated as a fun festival with few recognizing the continued dangers of Roman Catholicism. But had the pope not lost that battle, you and I might be reading a Roman Catholic Bible, if we were even allowed to possess one.

But the story of the war waged by the Vatican to stop God’s word for the common people is not over. Today gunpowder is not the weapon of choice, it is ecumenism and polluted bibles. David W. Daniels explains many fascinating details of this 500-year war and the present state of hostilities, in his book, Did the Catholic Church Give Us the Bible?, available from Chick Publications.

Evolution is Marvelous: Now a River is a Person

Belief in evolution has created some strange offspring. Yale University is organizing a conference on “Personhood Beyond the Human” for later this year. It will feature proponents of personhood rights for animals, infanticide, and bestiality. This is not about the pro-life “personhood” movement which is lobbying legislators to recognize unborn babies as persons from the moment of conception. This would hamper the abortion movement since state and federal constitutions grant “persons” special rights such as the right to life and legal standing in court.

However, the Yale conference is not designed to be helpful to the pro-life cause. A description on the conference website reads: “The event will focus on personhood for nonhuman animals, including great apes, cetaceans, and elephants, and will explore the evolving notions of personhood.”

Given evolution as an assumption, it is not hard to see the logic in this. Man, after all, is just another animal form created by random chance. If we grant him certain “rights” then why not an elephant, also.

Or a river. The government of New Zealand and the Whanganui iwi indigenous people recently agreed that the Whanganui River will be legally recognized as a person. This allows anyone to file a lawsuit on behalf of the river for any injustice done to “it”...or would it be to him...or to her? For example, last year, PETA, (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), filed a suit claiming that the five orca whales at Sea World are enslaved, in violation of the 13th Amendment.

But the conference is not just about animal rights. If evolution is true, then it must be still happening. And, it should be possible to help it along. That’s where the idea of “transhumans” comes in. Given the modern advances in technology, we should be able to use that technology to transform humanity into something “beyond” human.

I have ordered and handed-out Chick tracts as well. I just wanted to comment on the person who wrote the article in your newsletter entitled “Confessions of a Chick Tract User”. I just want to say what a blessing it is to hear from others who give out Chick tracts and how God is using them to reach the lost. Sadly, many (if not most) Christians are fearful (or possibly too ashamed) to give out tracts—and many churches don’t want to associate with them because they don’t want to be perceived as “haters.”

What a sad thing that Christians don’t want to do EVERYTHING they can to help spread the Gospel—knowing what Jesus did for them and what He delivered them from. (How can THAT be ‘hate’?) I would think that ALL Blood-Bought Christians would JUMP at the chance to WARN others from the “wrath to come” but ALSO to tell them THE GOOD NEWS—but they won’t even do that! I just don’t understand. God Have Mercy on us! right tract for him, and after 40 minutes of him breaking down, I delivered him to a Native Christian pastor.

Then there were numerous times driving and seeing someone on a corner, then THAT VOICE: “Stop! Give them a tract.” Then me arguing, “I am late!” Then these thoughts: “Are you not protected from injury, fires, loss of income? Can you not obey me? That person is precious.” So, many times, 3-5 miles later I go back. When they are gone, I have to hunt them down; 80% of the time I find them, and wow, they are, like, at the end of their rope and some are crying, and MORE THAN ONCE, the person looks me in the eye, bending down into the passenger window and said, “Do you have something for me?” or “I thought you would come back.”

When vacationing in a remote village every year in Mexico, I always went down with, like, 1,000 tracts. The pastor where we attended then was ashamed (not of me) and said, “You do this on your vacation?” I was, like, “Well, of course. It’s a mission field, and an easy one at that.”

Once, my order was messed up. I was so mad at Chick administration; I mean what am I going to do with 600 Jehovah’s Witness tracts? I needed, The Beast, Tiny Shoes, Bad Bob, etc. Well, my village was inundated with JWs. A village elder accompanied me and we gave out each of the 600. So then, the doctors and nurses sought me out and asked for more (only had 3 left)—for their waiting room. They thanked me because they had “had it” with the no-blood-transfusion stuff. They mounted the last three in a frame in the waiting room. This is a village, life-and-death, heroic-care type hospital. They almost bowed down to me.

Twice in Mexico, I was sought out by pastors. One from Puerto Vallarta who heard about me, drove 40 miles and begged me for all the tracts that I had available. He ministered to people who lived in the city dump. When my son was only like 5, he would go up to big federal police and hand them tracts. They loved him.

Without Chick tracts, I never would have fulfilled the great commission ordered for me to follow. Sometimes I get nervous, slipping them into unattended gym bags, coats on racks, but I just think, "Okay! You never know."

Many Christians want to provide Chick tracts to missionaries.

We can help!

We maintain an account called:
The Chick Mission Fund

Although we are not legally structured as a non-profit, and therefore cannot give tax-deductible receipts, we definitely know how to get literature into missionaries' hands. They often write to us asking if anyone can help them get Chick tracts.

I wanted to write & thank you for the tracts that you sent us through the Chick [Mission Fund]. We will put them to good use here in St. Vincent! The people are now coming to me, stopping me on the road for, as they call them the "Little Books!". We just gave out a thousand! This new order will hold us for awhile. Again, Thank you for your kindness towards us! God bless and again Thank You! Thank You!

100% of the funds you send to the Chick Mission Fund are used to ship literature to missionaries. We receive requests frequently from missionaries who need your help. Just during recent months, shipments have been provided for:

- ... 20,000 tracts for Philippines
- ... 20,000 Swahili tracts for missionaries in Kenya
- ... 30,000 more tracts for China
- ... 95,000 Spanish tracts for ministries in Mexico
- ... 50,000 tracts for two outreaches in India
- ... 10,000 Japanese tracts for ministries in Japan
- ... 30,000 tracts for Asian ministries (multiple languages)

It's Like Daring God

By David W. Daniels

Even when people realize they are sinners and need Christ, they may respond, "I can't do that now; I've got to clean up my life first." Did you know you can find this misconception in changes to important words in some modern bibles?

Look at Acts 2:38, right after the men of Jerusalem are stricken in their hearts and declare, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?"

In the 1938 copy of the Douay-Rheims Bible, verse 38 says: "But Peter said to them, Do penance, and be baptized...." Do penance? I have to do a work to be saved? Of course not. We can't do works to get saved. John 6:29 declares: "Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent."

So any translation that makes a work into what we do to be saved in Acts 2:38 cannot possibly be what God said. It has to be man's words. In the "Cotton Patch" version of this verse it says: "Rock said to them, Reshape your lives...." I thought Jesus reshaped my life. Someone is mistaken.

In "The Message" version: "Peter said, Change your life. Turn to God..." Change my own life? The hymn correctly states: "What a wonderful change in my life has been wrought, since Jesus came into my heart."

But here, it makes it into our work, doesn't it?

Another new version, The Common English Bible with Apocrypha, says: "Peter replied, 'Change your hearts and lives....'" So it's not just your life, you have to change your own heart ...and your life!

With these twists in their bibles, it is easy to see how someone would assume he has to "clean up his act" before he can come to Christ. And even after someone

"accepts Christ" he may still think that he is doing the work, instead of letting the Holy Ghost work in him.

What does "repent" mean? A person lost in sin is facing away from God, fallen, under His judgment and needing Him desperately. But the Lord is 180 degrees away, completely separate from sin. I have to turn 180 degrees, and face the Lord Jesus. That's the meaning of "repent" for an unbeliever: Turn, in faith, and trust the Lord Jesus and His shed blood, which alone is able to save and forgive our sin.

But these are not the only modern bibles that have adopted this definition of repent: You'll find "change your hearts and lives" instead of "repent" in the Youth Bible (1991), the International Children's Bible (1987) and in the English Version for the Deaf (1978). A new version called The Expanded Bible not only says,

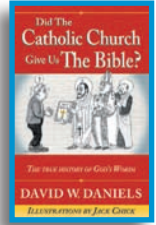

"Change your hearts and lives," but it also adds commentary right into the text of the scriptures. So man's guesses, conjectures, and interpretations that are usually at the bottom of the page, are right there in the text!

And once you start, where do you stop? I never want to stand before Jesus on Judgment Day and have Him say to me, "Why did you put your words in my Bible?"

Every time we elevate our words to the level of scripture, we are taking a chance with God.

We are almost daring His anger.

cil intent on killing as many as he could. Fortunately he was immediately confronted by a security guard who was shot but managed to disarm the intruder, Floyd Corkins II. In a plea bargain, Corkins admitted he had gained inspiration for his plot from the web site of the Southern Poverty Law Center, a civil rights advocacy group that had also listed the FRC in its list of “hate” groups.

The email also warned military leaders to look out for anyone that did not appear to have “army values.” “When we see behaviors that are inconsistent with Army Values—don’t just walk by—do the right thing and address the concern before it becomes a problem.” Given the concerns of the soldiers who have contacted Congressman Forbes, it appears that “army values” are no longer what they once were.

Unfortunately, it is not just “army values” that have eroded. The biblical values that our forefathers revered and that made us the most blessed nation in history are being systematically removed from all parts of our culture: schools, media, government, and homes.

The only hope is a return to the righteousness that will again exalt us from the reproach of our sin. (Prov. 14:34) Most revivals in history have been sparked by a saturation of the culture with no-nonsense gospel tracts.

A River Has Rights...

The Yale conference will also be exploring that possibility. For a hint on how this might work, one of the speakers is Peter Singer who is known for advocating bestiality as a form of legitimate recreation and infanticide, immediately disposing of a disabled baby anytime in the first 30 days of life.

Of course, the concept of man as animal has led to some horrendous history. Hitler, basically, used this assumption to justify his attempt to develop a superior race through the same kind of culling the weak and “defective,” and breeding up the strong. Atheistic evolutionists like Peter Singer have the same objective, a superior race. Their problem is what to do with the culls.

As long as there are people in the world who believe, (of course, that would include us “Christians”) as the U.S. constitution says, man is endowed by his Creator with the inalienable right to life, Singer has to find a way to declare them defective and eliminate them, also. Oddly enough, this appears to be the viewpoint of much of our government and university leaders in their increasingly successful campaign to eliminate all acknowledgment of God in public life.

For over a hundred years, Bible believers have sat by and allowed the takeover of our public schools and universities by these leaders with this atheistic, humanistic, evolution-based worldview. To counter this devilish attack, we must start with our children. Parents and church leaders must talk to their children in the government schools and show them how to tell the difference between Biblical truth and Satan’s deception. We can’t shield our kids from these lies, but we can help them see the difference.

Chick Publications has a tract, *Big Daddy?*, and several books and videos that expose the lie of evolution.

A MESSAGE FROM JACK CHICK...

Dear ones in Christ,

The other day as we walked into a restaurant, David lifted his smart phone into the air. I asked him, "What are you doing?" He said "I'm finding the name of the song that's playing." I said, "That's impossible." Then he did it. He showed me not only the name, but the lyrics in time with the music, and the album it was from!

That made me think of what's coming. Facebook, Netflix, Google maps, street view —incredible breakthroughs are all around us. So are hidden cameras, people and programs who can "read" our possible thoughts and motives by watching our feet, faces and eyes. They're pretty accurate at spotting a lie, hatred, even hidden motives. When Boston was bombed, remember how quickly those faces were there on the television? In minutes all sorts of data on the people popped up.

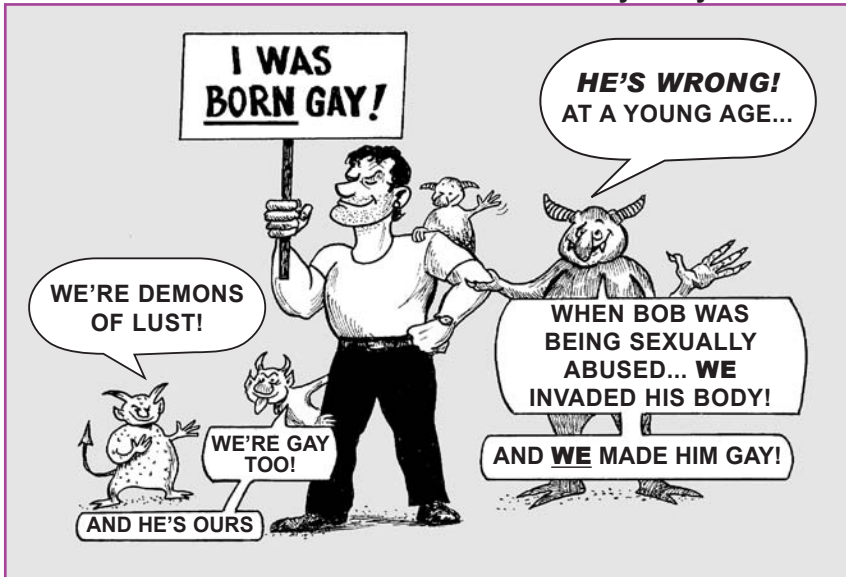

That's nothing compared to what will happen during the Great Tribulation. The stage is set. It's right around the corner. Thank God we'll be gone. Everything we see is being prepared for the Beast. Just imagine the trials people will face, a nightmare of electronic surveillance that will give no place to hide.

God is holding out His restraining hand for one reason. "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." (2 Peter 3:9). As long as we keep handing out gospel tracts, and getting the gospel out in public, the Lord may be merciful and give more time for our loved ones to be saved.

The only eyes we need to fear are the Lord's. "The eyes of the LORD are in every place, beholding the evil and the good" (Proverbs 15:3). The Lord will judge all mankind. We need to fear Him and not men, and get the gospel out to them while there is still time.

Yours for the lost,

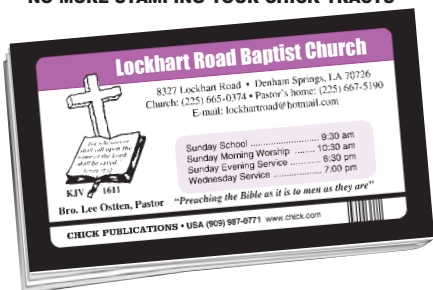

For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

Romans 1:26-27
