

Missionary Sowing Gospel of Peace in Hurting City

While governments dither and the world decries the deteriorating situation south of the U.S. border, one missionary and his co-laborers are doing something about it. Using the time-honored concept that saturation of an area with the gospel will beat back the devil, they are seeding hundreds of thousands of Bibles, Bible portions, Chick tracts and other literature into the city of Juarez, just across the Rio Grande River from El Paso, Texas.

Christian merchants and shop keepers helped sow the gospel seed in the neighborhoods.

Teams include missionaries, local pastors, shop owners, grocers, and lots of children and teenagers from area churches. Astounding stories are beginning to come back from the effort. Seven teens were able to hand out 4,000 tracts at a shopping mall in just two hours.

Chick Tracts a Core Tool In Church Planting

As a 21-year-old new Christian, Jerry Alford participated in the start up of a Baptist church in north Florida that strategically used Chick tracts as one of its primary resources. This early experience with Chick tracts would be the basis for future missionary work in Venezuela. He writes:

One way to measure the success of using Chick tracts is through the number of churches that have been started using this tremendous tool.

Upon arriving in the interior of Venezuela as a missionary, we immediately prepared for the launch of a new church. In our small, interior town on the edge of the

One dramatic story came from a believer who had an assortment of tracts in a basket at his roadside stand where he cooked and sold hamburgers. One mean-looking customer demanded a hamburger and was handed a tract picked at random from the basket to read while the burger was cooking.

When the order was ready, the customer had finished the tract and was visibly shaken. He told the brother that he was one of the local hit men in the area and he had killed four people so far that day and had two more to go. The tract that had been handed to him was El Pistolero (Gunslinger), and

How to Deal with Sin: Christian-Muslim Contrast

This month, when U.S. Representative Peter King organized hearings on the radicalization of Muslims in the U.S. he ignited a furor. The hearings were born out of concern over recent arrests of U.S. citizens who had converted to Islam and were plotting or had carried out terrorist acts.

Muslim advocacy groups accused King of promoting “Islamophobia,” generating hate for all Muslims for the misdeeds of a few. King claims he only wants to determine how extensive the radicalization is and challenge the “moderate” Muslim community to step up and counter it. He points to the lack of general Muslim outrage over incidents such as the 13 fellow soldiers shot to death by Major Nidal Hasan.

This political confusion is paralleled in the church. Some “Christian” leaders are reaching out to partner with Muslim leaders to promote “understanding.” Others are simply ignoring them. Even Bible believers seem stymied when a mosque springs up in their neighborhood. So what is the bottom line here? Lauren Green, religion correspondent for Fox News says it is sin. Green asks the question in the headline of her March 10 article: Is There Something in Islam that Makes Believers More Susceptible to Radicalization?

Green points out that the basic difference between Islam and Christianity is the handling of sin. Islam is like all other unbiblical religions: salvation from sin is earned by ritual prayers, good works, and promotion of the religion, often by violence.

By contrast, Christianity provides salvation as a free gift, divorced from any effort required to earn it. Religious activity is the result of a loving response to the free gift, not part of a requirement for salvation. And, this “loving response” is another contrast with Islam. In fact, as Green points out, the key difference is the central figure in each religion, Muham-

‘Secrets’ You Can Use in Witnessing to Mormons

One day, 11-year-old Cindy Benson was secure in her sixth generation Mormon family; the next day devastation struck when her 53-year-old father brought home a 15-year-old second wife. He explained that it was necessary for him to do that to “fulfill the law of progression towards his own godhood.”

Born into Mormonism, she knew no other religion or culture, but looked forward to serving as a Mormon missionary, marrying a “wonderful Mormon man,” having children and eventually “live forever in our celestial kingdom as a goddess,” along with her eternal husband.

Originally a traditional Mormon family, her father began reading early writings of Joseph Smith and left to join a splinter group that still practiced polygamy. This began Cindy’s disillusionment with the religion.

Searching for truth on her own, she discovered that the Book of Mormon began that polygamy was “abominable” and that God commanded to have only one wife. (See Mosiah 11:2 and Jacob 2:24 and 27.)

Delighted, she wrote her father a letter hoping that he would see his error and return home. He replied that another sacred Mormon book, Doctrine and Covenants, stated that polygamy was the “new and everlasting covenant,” and that this superseded the Book of Mormon. Cindy

Foreign Language Tracts—A Whole New Joy!

Above: Two bags of foreign language tracts in alphabetical order. Below: You can easily thumb through them until you find the right language.

“I have been giving out Chick tracts for over 30 years and was pretty sure I’d gone through all the different ways to use them,” writes prison Chaplain Dann Slator. “I gave out equal amounts of Spanish and English tracts in my 18 years as a volunteer prison chaplain, but for the last five years I can’t believe how much joy I get out of these foreign tracts.”

About 5 years ago, he says that the Lord showed him this additional way. Noticing that the California culture included an increasing variety of foreign languages, he began to take with him some of the 100 non-English titles that Chick Publications carries. He would fill his pockets with the most common languages and stock his car with others that he thought he might need.

He began to study the people to try to figure out their nationality so he could hand them the right language tract. If not sure, he would fan out three or four titles in his hand and ask the person if they recognized any of the languages. When he had guessed right, the person’s face would light up as he reached for the right tract. If they said “no,” he would ask their language and if he had one in his pockets, give them the gospel in that language.

If he did not have one with him, he would ask them to wait a minute while he retrieved one from his car. He keeps about 30 languages in his pockets and another 30 in the car. “A lot of times, when I

Persecution Against Christians

Rising Worldwide

Many end-time prophecies are falling into place with the rapidly changing world events. One is that the night is coming when no man can work. One writer estimates that “Christians are facing some sort of harassments in two-thirds of all countries.”

These “harassments” range from verbal abuse to burned churches (sometimes with Christians inside), to imprisonment or death.

As a block, the countries dominated by Islam are the worst. Even the “moderate” Muslim nations have for years built a wall against entry of the gospel. Saudi Arabia is a classic example with not a single church building in the whole country.

The turmoil in the Middle East is not helping the Christians there. Persecution is rising and believers are fleeing their homelands to try to find safety in other countries. But many have nowhere to go and no way to get out.

Countries such as Saudi Arabia and Jordan that are supposedly friendly to the U.S. are not tolerant to those who convert to Christ. Ministries that work in Muslim countries claim that there are thousands, even possibly millions, of believers there. Yet they are impossible to count because they must hide their faith or be expelled from their families and society. In some cases they are killed, often by their own relatives. One example is a father, Maher Truckers like these Chick tracts. I stopped at a truck stop and handed one to a trucker sitting at the coffee counter, which attracted the interest of a couple more truckers. I gave them a Chick tract, too. Soon there would be a whole coffee counter full of middle aged, burly-looking truck drivers sitting there reading Gospel comic books!

We have had truckers getting saved almost every Sunday. Next month we should be getting a trailer put at the truck stop, donated by Providence Baptist Church, that we can use for a mobile chapel. Then we can have more services, and do more counseling and soul winning during the week.

H.L., Trucking for Christ, VA

A couple of weeks before Christmas, at a [church] meeting, a woman asked me for some of the tracts. At that moment I had only one Busted tract in my pocket. I gave it to her.

Later, on a bus, she handed this tract to someone. He was curious and asked what this was about, and she explained the salvation message to him.

But he couldn't hear because of the noise in the bus. So, she raised her voice and he got the message about Christ, the Saviour.

But what she didn't know was the fact that she had reached all the others on the bus with the same message, because she had to talk loudly. She realized that when she had finished. G.E., Norway

Sex, Evolution’s Nightmare!

By Thomas Heinze

“Where did males and females come from? Creation, or evolution?”

Males are in many ways similar to females of the same species. A few male organs, however, are very different from those in the female. If this were not the case, reproduction could never take place. The differences were purposely designed by our Creator to work together. If males and females were not both different and compatible, we would not have been born, strong evidence that God created both.

Let’s lay it out in an organized way:

1. Male organs could not have evolved separately until they became functional.

2. Female organs could not have evolved separately until they became functional.

Nevertheless, if even a single generation did not have both males and females that fit together and worked together, the whole species would have died out!

Evolutionists believe that gradual, tiny changes added up over time to produce new organs. They can sometimes make it sound reasonable that evolution might have perfected things like hands and legs mad and Jesus. Muhammad was a product of his era of tribalism, rife with revenge and violence. His book, the Qur’an, is a compilation of philosophies of conquest, plunder, and enslavement. Modern Islamic “radicals” are simply acting out these philosophies.

Jesus is the culmination of the story of God reaching out to a rebellious creation in mercy and love for those who would respond to His overtures. The Bible is a complete narrative, from God creating the world to His continual dealings with mankind, and prophecy of how He will finish the project. Free from coercion, man may choose to obey God’s commandments and prosper, or rebel and face disgrace and eternal damnation.

This differing approach to the sin problem sets Islam miles apart from Christianity. And, since this “Judeo-Christian ethic” is the foundation of the culture of the Western World, Muslim infiltration has such a jarring effect.

Until Bible believers realize these fundamental differences, they will be largely immobilized by this befuddling religion. The few soul winners who are successful in converting Muslims have used their respect for Jesus as a prophet spoken of favorably in the Qur’an. Since Islam teaches that a prophet cannot lie, when Muslims read of Jesus’ claim to be God, they are stopped cold. How can they deny what He is saying?

Mohammad Ghazoli, in his book, Christ, Muhammad and I, describes in detail his amazement when he discovered the loving God of the Bible. Muhammad’s Allah was just too capricious and inscrutable to be true. But this God made sense: a loving Creator, free from violence and force, offering eternal life freely to everyone who would love Him in return.

Other details of the contrast between Muhammad and Christ, the Qur’an and the Bible can be found in two other books published by Chick Publications: Who is This Allah and Anatomy of the Qur’an. Several tracts are also available for use with Muslims or to teach about Islam.

he had a question: "Can God forgive someone like me?"

Before the brother could answer, the man cautioned: "Think about your answer, because if I don't like it I might kill you, too." The courageous brother came from behind his stand, put his arm around the man and said: "Yes, God can forgive you, He wants to forgive you, He died for you, you need to repent of your sins and accept Jesus as your Saviour and He will forgive you. In fact the Father that you never had, is here right now and wants to forgive you and save you." The hit man started crying and prayed out loud to receive Christ as his Saviour. He later threw away his pistol and brought other men from his gang to get more tracts and have them listen to the gospel.

"Several former gang members have been won to Christ and Chick tracts are a great tool to open the door," says Missionary Tim Urling. "Gang members come up to me while soul winning and ask for different titles of Chick tracts. Many times they'll sit and read them right away."

To reach the thousands of children, Urling's team furnishes Chick tracts and Vacation Bible School materials. Somebody Loves Me and A Love Story are favorites.

Vacation Bible School materials for children in Juarez, Mexico

Urling says that the media has exaggerated the violence situation to include everyone, while the fact is, 99% of the violence is centered around the drug trade and those involved. But with so many Mexican soldiers and Federal Police there, this creates even more candidates for the gospel. "They will eagerly accept the tracts and Bibles and even ask for copies if they see them on your car's dash board when you are stopped at various checkpoints."

The next big campaign is scheduled this May with plans to distribute 500,000 Bible portions and over 100,000 Chick tracts. Besides the local pastors and teams, they need another 150 people to put more "boots on the ground." If so, they probably buy Spanish Bibles to give to new converts. Many Christians are unaware that the RV 1960 Bible contains many modernistic, critical readings that actually change doctrine! Debate is heating up as more Christians become aware of shortcomings in their Spanish Bibles. This book gives the history of the Spanish Bible and explains the simple reasons why the RVG 2010 is the only Bible you can trust.

jungle it was common to see vendors set up a small table on a busy street corner to sell their goods. It seemed like a great idea! We set up a small table with several stacks of Chick tracts and shared them freely with hundreds of curious people who passed by. With the Chick booklets we were successful in meeting dozens of new people and winning many of them to the Lord.

In addition to our street corner table, we went door-to-door evangelizing and even ventured out into the savanna where there were no roads or bridges. Today, as a result of the impact of these Chick booklet initiatives, there is a strong church in Caracara that is expanding.

This church now has a Bible Institute, a large Bible Camp with several hundred acres, and at least three other missions. Praise God for giving us tools like Chick literature. Chick tracts are a valuable tool for placing the gospel in the hands of the lost, seeing the salvation of many souls, and the planting of churches.

In Maracay, Venezuela, our strategy was to use five different Chick tracts throughout five different weeks. Each week, we would visit the same homes with a different Chick tract. During each visit we would take time to present the plan of salvation. Many repented unto salvation, were baptized, and became the foundation nucleus of the new Fountain of Love Baptist Church. It quickly grew to about 200 in attendance as we continued our Chick tract strategy.

of church planting activity. Why? It works! Thank you for publishing and supplying Chick tracts to us and other missionaries. There is always a need for more Chick tracts in church planting. In our ministry, we could use 100,000 tracts of one individual title.

Even now, we have a new church being born. Everyone is excited about what God is doing. These four men pictured on the next page have been helping us distribute the Chick tracts and as you can see in the previous pictures the people and children are very interested in the literature. They rush up to us begging for more booklets to read. These

He also saved enough to buy a special printing of the tract, The Titanic. On the back he personalized it with a small picture of himself on a horse taken when he was a young man. When he hands the tract to someone he says, "That's me on the horse when I worked on the Matador Ranch in Texas." It makes it even more difficult for the person to refuse the tract.

Dann sums up his life: "All I can testify to is that it's truly been a real joy for me and my prison ministry that the Lord gave me over 30 years ago; and I believe I'm still in for more surprises."

Dann's early life is the subject of one of Chick Publications Crusader Comics series called Unwanted. Finally, she surrendered to the Jesus of the Bible and, together, they began to reach out to the deceived followers of Mormonism. One of the fruits of their ministry is a book called Secrets Mormons DON'T Want You to Know, recently published by Chick Publications. The format is simple: 162 "secret" false teachings of Mormonism, followed by the truth, from the Bible or common sense. These land mines provide the soul winner with a huge arsenal to confront Mormons caught in their spiritual fantasy world. The contradiction that Cindy found when confronting her father is just one of dozens of similar "secrets," found in this book.

Each item is thoroughly documented from central Mormon texts including the Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, Journal of Discourses, and various writings of the officials of the "church."

Exposed are beliefs such as the brotherhood of Jesus and Lucifer, God was once a man, and at death, good Mormons inherit their own planet with dozens of wives who have spirit babies to inhabit human bodies at birth.

Here are a few of the 162 other "secrets" revealed in this book:

Secret 18: Mormonism teaches that God is married, and a polygamist.

Secret 27: Mormonism says Jesus was born in Jerusalem.

Secret 38: Mormonism teaches that the Holy Spirit is a spirit man.

Secret 43: Mormonism says salvation by faith alone in Jesus Christ is "utter nonsense."

Secret 58: One of Joseph Smith's wives was 14 years old.

Secret 59: Joseph Smith taught that people lived on the moon.

Secret 70: Mormon writings were changed to cover up Joseph Smith's occult practices.

Secret 112: Mormonism teaches that "eternal" punishment can last as little as one hour.

Secret 127: Joseph Smith was a high ranking Mason.

Secret 133: Mormon leaders hate Christianity.

Secret 144: Mormonism teaches that earth was conceived by its parent earths.

If a soul winner thoroughly studies this book, he will be well equipped to engage the Mormons who come to his door rather than ignoring the doorbell. Also useful is the paperback, Answers to My Mormon Friends and the Crusaders Comic, The Enchanter, showing details of the life of Joseph Smith that most Mormons don't know or refuse to admit.

that are similar for both sexes. But since there is no decent evolutionary explanation for the origin of males and females, their whole theory of evolution falls apart!

We all know that a more highly evolved female does not become a male; nor does a male evolve to become a female. Believers in evolution have no reasonable explanation for the origin of either male or female organs. Compounding their problem is the fact that both males and females would have to have popped up in the same generation, complete with the correct organs that fit each other and were capable of reproduction!

Sexual reproduction could not have evolved gradually over generations because without reproduction there could never have been even one generation. This is true of both people and anything else that reproduces sexually. In every generation, males and females, whether people or animals, had two possibilities: Their sex organs worked or they became extinct.

The very different male and female sex organs obviously could not have evolved one from the other. Neither could they have evolved separately over time! Each depends on the other.

Sex is a great evidence that God, and not evolution, created us. Read Genesis chapters one and two to see how He did it!

*Thomas Heinze is the author of two paperbacks. How Life Began describes the incredible complexity of even basic forms of life and the myriad types of building blocks used. With this evidence, he shows that the probability of life forming spontaneously in some primordial soup is beyond calculation. country to being refugees in another. As Maher found out, under the current government, the United States no longer lives up to its reputation of being a refuge for the "huddled masses" even if, or especially if, they are Christian.

Franklin Graham, son of evangelist Billy Graham, states that, under the current president, Islam is becoming a favored religion in the U.S.

He told Newsmax, "The Muslim Brotherhood is very strong and active here in our country. We have these people advising our military and State Department."

Coupled with the assault on Christians by the sodomites, if Islam gets significant power in the US, the last haven of religious freedom is in jeopardy. As we see the clouds gathering, we must consider more carefully our witnessing strategy in these last days.

Missionaries have discovered what old-time revivalists like Finney, Spurgeon and the Wesleys knew, that saturation of a community with no-nonsense gospel literature is a prerequisite for revival.

Believers with the resources are sending tracts by the hundreds of thousands into places like Mexico and the Philippines. They understand that any surplus left in banks in America on judgment day will reflect on their stewardship.

This saturation tactic also works well anywhere unbelievers dominate, even in "post-Christian" America.

A MESSAGE FROM JACK CHICK...

Dear ones in Christ,

400 years ago in 1611, the words of God—an exact translation to English of the words written by inspiration of God, through Paul, James, Matthew, Mark, Moses and the prophets— were published in English in the 1611 Authorized King James Version. It has been the book of books, loved by millions. This uncorrupted Bible, blessed by God, was responsible for sweeping revivals and was loved by born-again believers in the English speaking world.

But out of Satan's Roman Catholic Vatican the war cry could be heard, "Destroy that Book!" In Rome, nothing received more hatred than God's holy word. That war is still raging today, behind the scenes. An ex-Jesuit priest told me that the Great Whore of Revelation 17-18 had poured billions of dollars into ridiculing and overthrowing that Book, producing many Catholic versions of their Bible to push the KJV out of sight.

Did it work? Did Bible believers turn against the King James Bible? Were the Roman Catholics able to push God's treasure out of our churches and homes? You bet they have—replacing our birthright with a mess of pottage: Roman Catholic-influenced Bibles like the NIV, the "New" King James, plus hundreds of other Catholic-backed translations in scores of languages. They pulled it off!

When you tell a Christian his Bible version is Roman Catholic, notice the anger glaring back at you. This is a spiritual battle, beloved. That's why we've brought back a new, stronger version of our tract, The Attack. This scripture applies to us today, "Whoso despiseth the word shall be destroyed" (Prov. 13:13). We don't dare despise His word!

Thank God we are still allowed to read the King James Bible in America. But for how long? You can be sure that's the first thing the coming one-world church will outlaw.

"And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh" (Luke 21:28).

Until He comes. Your brother in Christ,
