

Is Roman Catholic ‘Evangelism’ Biblical?

A February 19, 2023 article in National Review lamented the 18 percent loss of members in America’s Roman Church. The writer, Bishop Andrew Cozzens, proposes a solution: the Eucharistic procession. This involves placing a ceremonial wheat wafer in a sunburst-shaped display that is carried high as the centerpiece of a public parade.

The article claims that there have been hundreds of these processions in the last year in America. It also states that the purpose was “to renew faith in Jesus Christ with a particular focus on... the Eucharist.” So, what makes this wheat wafer special?

(Screen capture: video by United Our Nation)

A public procession (parade) of the Eucharist, the Roman Catholic wafer god. They are taught that what looks like a wheat wafer in the center of the sunburst has been magically changed into the actual body and divinity of Jesus Christ. This “street witnessing” is the pope’s idea of evangelism.

‘Tract Ministry Radically Changed Me’

(Testimony by K.J., California)

For years, I have used Chick tracts. Most of the time, I placed them somewhere people might stop and have a chance to read them. On rare occasions, I handed them directly to someone. This pattern radically changed after I told God I wanted to do something for Him and asked that He let me know what He wanted me to do.

Within three weeks, I met a gentleman who had a local public ministry. Part of it involved passing tracts and he allowed me to use Chick tracts, but now in direct contact with many people.

The big difference was not only the number of people we encountered but also the opportunity to talk with some of them who had the time. The tracts became a launching point for me to begin the conversation.

When people get a Chick tract, it is more likely the recipient will read it as opposed to a standard tract containing only printed

This wafer is made special by a consecration ceremony based on a literal interpretation of John 6:48-58 where Jesus makes a graphic analogy between His flesh and His teaching. Only certain members of the clergy are ordained to perform this ceremony which reportedly turns the wheat in the wafer into the actual “body, blood, and divinity” of Jesus Christ.

Since the wafer is now divine, worshipping it in this processional will “renew faith in Jesus Christ.” This doctrine of the “real presence” constitutes the “good news” presented in this form of “street witnessing.”

But, how “good” is this “good news?” Is it good enough for over a billion people who trust it as their hope of eternal life? And was it good enough for millions more that have trusted it in the last one thousand years?

The answer to this question has had a huge effect on the history of the Western World. When Martin Luther and the other Reformers consulted the Bible, they answered, “NO!” This made them “Protestants” for their “protest” against this very teaching. And millions ended up paying the ultimate price for that “No.”

In 1555, Hugh Latimer and Nicholas Ridley were lashed to a stake and firewood stacked around their feet in the courtyard of Oxford University in England. The inquisitor gave them one last chance to agree that the priest could turn the wheat wafer into Jesus Christ. When they refused, the wood was ignited

Saturate Your Town

This article was contributed by Maria D. after obeying a dream about how to use tracts to reach her town.

I am writing this to encourage the readers of Battle Cry to attempt to saturate their town with the Gospel. In a dream I had last week, I had placed a full pack of 25 The Little Ghost Chick tracts around at my town’s train station. So, during my waking hours that evening, I did so. It was really easy to do, such as: on the benches and other sitting areas, on bicycle handles, on window ledges, and on top of the pay phone.

The next day, I went to place some more The Little Ghost Chick tracts at the train station. I saw there a Hispanic family waiting for the train. I asked the mother if she would like a Gospel cartoon for her children. She pointed to one of her children and said, “We have one already.” I turned and looked and sure enough, their little girl had it open on her lap while sitting on the bench and was reading it intently. The father of the family also said to me, “Oh, we got one already. There are lots of them and they are everywhere!” I said, “Oh, good — that’s great!” and gave them a thumbs up, and then I walked on.

On the occasion that there was someone sitting in their car, I offered them a Gospel cartoon to read —most of the time they gladly took one and sat there reading it. A young man in his car had a look of pure joy on his face as he was reading the tract. I prayed as I was walking around.

I also walked up and down the main town street and offered families a copy of The Little Ghost for their kids. Nearly all of them were gladly accepted. I also handed copies of it to older people and said, “Here is a Gospel cartoon for your grandchildren!”

I handed one on the street to a young couple, and the wife looked at the tract and said to her husband, “The message

EVERYONE...

NEEDS A CHANCE

We all know that people who don't know the Lord are headed for disaster... but they don't know it!

Jesus assigned to us the job of giving those people a chance for eternal life. Maybe they will accept Christ. Maybe not. But saving them is not our responsibility.

Jesus said "preach." Giving them a tract does just that.

Each person that accepts a tract from you now has a chance. Some may wait until they face their last breath to respond, but since they read that tract they know what to do!

LET'S GIVE THEM THAT CHANCE!

words. They are getting something that is of greater substance in their hand that appears to have more value and their eye is drawn to the cartoon art of the title page. As the story unfolds, it often gets them invested enough to read to the end.

I found that a friendly greeting of, “Good morning!” and a genuine smile are many times the greatest encouragement to getting a person to accept a tract. A remark like “When you get a chance to relax...” softens the feeling of being spoken to by a stranger and sometimes further motivates them to accept it by removing feelings of urgency or pressure.

Perhaps the biggest challenge to me was speaking to the person directly as a witness when opportunity allowed. Because the tract was already in someone’s hand, or willing to be received if offered, I could use it to begin the conversation.

When I began, I was very concerned that people would react in hostility. Confrontation and negative feelings were not the outcome I wanted. What shocked me then (and to this day still sometimes does) is that people would often respond with gratitude. Many anxious or hurting people have said “thank you” or shook my hand.

In one instance, a conversation with a young woman turned when she admitted that she was born again but her young son had died, and she resented God for it. Feeling completely inadequate to answer, I leaned on God for wisdom.

I assured her that God knew her pain and that her son was safe in the arms of Jesus but that even that event, which she never would have wanted, could be used by him to bring good. I reminded her what Romans 8:28 says and that God could use even a tragedy like this to equip her or change her for some purpose that she might not otherwise have been able to accomplish to bring Him glory.

It is a privilege every day to know that the Lord allows me to serve him and that the gospel tracts Chick Publications produces help to open the door to witness. ■ couldn’t be more clear, and it says everything that it needs to say!” And then, she looked at the back of the tract and said, “Hey, let’s get our Indiana mission board to put money towards this. This is what we need to be sending to our missions!” And her husband said, “Yes, great idea —I agree! We should do that —let’s do that!”

Then, I went inside the lobby of some nearby apartment buildings to put a Chick tract on the bulletin board inside of each one. I was pleasantly surprised to see that a copy of the Chick tract: A Demon’s Nightmare, (another tract title I have been recently distributing around the train station) had already been tacked by somebody else onto the bulletin board in one of the apartment buildings.

I did not expect to see it there when I walked in, and thought to myself, “Wow —the Word is really starting to get around town!” This shows me that my town is starting to receive some saturation of the Gospel message, which is the goal.

God will use a tract to either save somebody, plant a seed, or remind them of its message on Judgment Day if they reject the good news. Let’s get a revival going in our towns. We really need it. Anything is possible with the help of God. ■

Finnish Member of Parliament Again Charged With Hate

Dr. Päivi Räsänen is a Finnish politician who has served as a member of the Finnish Parliament since 1995 and was Minister of the Interior from 2011-2015. She is also a medical doctor and mother of five children with her husband, a Lutheran minister.

In 2019, Dr. Räsänen was accused of hate speech on three occasions, including in a tweet showing verses from the Bible. In the tweet, she questioned why the Finnish Lutheran Church was officially supporting Finland's Pride week. She attached a photograph containing verses from the Bible which describe homosexual acts as shameful. Dr. Räsänen denies the charges and says she stands behind her words.

and they were torched to death.

Perhaps the good news here is that they both were immediately received into heaven by the real Jesus of the Bible. But there must have been terribly bad news for those who sent them there early.

This is just another example of why Roman Catholicism is the unbiblical counterfeit church populated by centuries of popes who claim to be Christ's vice president (vicar).

This teaching of the Eucharist, that the wafer becomes Jesus, is so central to the Vatican's hierarchical house of cards that they cannot abandon it for the real gospel preached by Paul and the other apostles. It is central to the sacrifice of the Mass which claims that Christ's sacrifice on calvary was inadequate and needs to be constantly replayed to cover new sins.

The article goes on to claim that viewing the wafer in the procession will lead to questions that will lead to faith. But they have redefined "faith" to

The case is being seen as a test of whether personal religious beliefs can justify controversial language. Announcing the charges in April last year, Finland's state prosecutor said Dr. Räsänen had made comments likely to cause intolerance, contempt and hatred towards homosexuals.

In March 2022, Dr. Räsänen was acquitted on all charges after Finland's Bible tweet trial. The court said in a unanimous ruling that "it is not for the district court to interpret biblical concepts." However, this did not satisfy the prosecutor who is determined to convict her of hate speech.

The Finnish prosecutor has appealed the acquittal verdict and the Helsinki mean trust in the rituals of the "church" more than direct trust in Jesus alone for salvation.

The Reformers declared their freedom by "faith alone, in Christ alone" from the bondage of this antichrist organization. Martin Luther propelled the reformation with his discovery that the Bible taught that he could have salvation by faith alone without the rituals and the hierarchy of popery.

The boldness of Catholicism's claim that their "good news" is the same one offered in scripture shows how far evangelicals (and the rest of the Western World) have come in swallowing the pope's sweet poison.

Soul winners must not accept that Roman Catholics are just "separated brethren" safe in the arms of Jesus. They are, indeed, part of the field that is white unto harvest. Chick Publications has tracts and books to help you reach these people before it is too late. ■

Charged From p. 6

Court of Appeal has announced that the hearings of the case will take place on 22-24 August 2023.

Dr. Räsänen has said that she is “happy that this decision will lead to the continued discussion of the Bible in Finnish society”. The outcome of this case could have significant implications for freedom of speech and religion in Finland and elsewhere in Europe.

Bible believers should be aware that we in America live under a constitution that is supposed to guarantee the freedom of speech that Dr. Rasanen is attempting to defend. Yet every day comes news that that freedom is under attack.

But the best defense is a nation with hearts set on the truth. Much has been lost in this area but much can be gained back if enough Bible believers answer Christ’s call for laborers into the harvest.

And Chick tracts are about the easiest harvest tools you will find. ■

God bless you for all you do for the lost globally. I was passing through Turkey last month as I came back from a month visit to some of our newly supported churches. I stood in a small guest house in Istanbul and the clerk had a Turkish “This Was Your Life” tract. I asked him where he got it but his English was limited. God bless you again for your labor of love.

This little “doll” obviously loves her dolls. But she also is holding tight to a care package supplied by Care Drops International, headed up by David Ortega. Ortega founded the ministry in Longview, Texas focused specifically on the needs of Hondurans.

The personal items in the package will help for a while, but the gospel tract visible in the bottom of the package will have eternal consequences. Care Drops’ web site is www.caredrops.org.

Soul winners contemplating a short-term mission trip should consider including gospel tracts in their luggage. Ortega says, “The transformation of a life can begin with the mere curiosity of a storyline.”

More States Are Voting for Assisted Suicide

America is quietly opening up another chapter of death. Jesus said that Satan was out to kill, steal, and destroy. In the killing category, eleven states plus the District of Columbia make assisted suicide legal. Ten more have introduced legislation to do so since the beginning of 2023.

Proponents see it as an act of mercy, relieving suffering. Others accuse them of acting as God, making a decision that God reserves only to Himself.

The heart of the debate is the question, who is “terminally ill.” This decision, of course, generally lands in the lap of the medical field. As much as we respect that field, they are not perfect. Many who are still alive today can testify that their doctor’s verdict was incorrect. Dedicated doctors have joined the medical profession to help and to heal, not to destroy life. Yet some state laws threaten a doctor’s license if he objects to killing his patients.

Thus, the government ends up assuming to answer the question of who. But can we trust a government that sidesteps God and ignores the Bible? History does not provide an encouraging answer. Evil and godless governments have proven to be quick to decide who should live and who should not.

The philosophy behind assisted suicide covers more than just the “terminally ill.” Some have considered that disabled people are a drag on the culture, declared them “terminally” useless and candidates for elimination. Others consider that the mentally ill should be put out of their misery.

The same philosophy surfaces in the current fight over abortion, to simply dispose of the child that is getting in somebody’s way. Some even advocate refusal of life-giving assistance to a baby accidentally born alive during an abortion.

The introduction of evolution provided an open door for godless atheism. With God out of the way, men could now take over His job. The creation of life and the justification for death was now in the hands of science.

But the creation of life outside of God’s method of male-female cooperation still remains a distant dream for science. However, death is another matter. Evolutionists are stuck with the concept of survival of the fittest.

Satan managed to get Hitler and Stalin to carry this to the ultimate extreme. Jews and the mentally ill were considered an unfit form of subhuman lowlife. Medical science was actually enlisted to find more efficient ways to eliminate them so that the “superior race” could thrive.

Now today, modern Marxism is trying to put a new face on this demonic philosophy. Biblical truth is being rapidly expunged from our culture. In its place is a fanciful utopian dream. Rich men are spending billions in scientific research to extend their life span.

But Satan’s agenda is still death to as much of God’s creation as he can. Unfortunately, he has been given power to persuade men to carry out that agenda. For a couple hundred years, the Western world has had the highest standard of living in history. That was basically provided by obedience to God’s word.

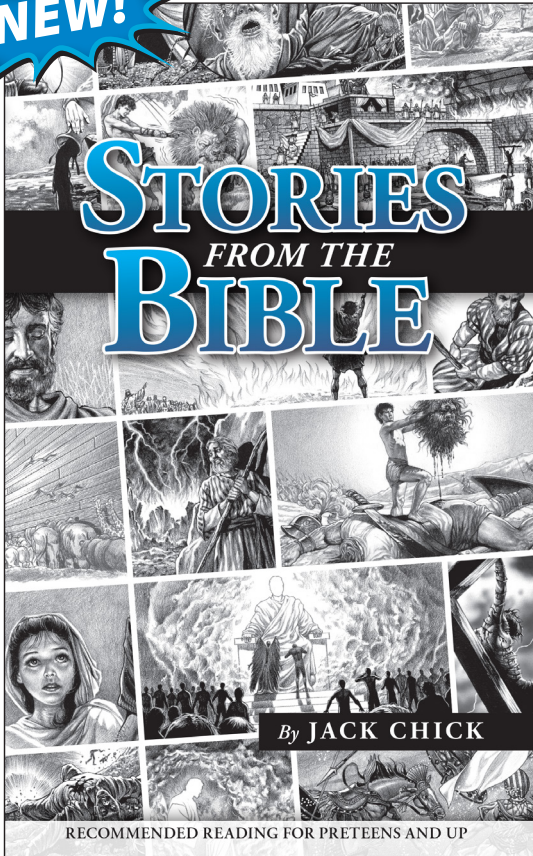

Today, Satan’s campaign of lies is accelerating death and destruction. Without a revival of obedience to God’s word, we are being set up for a catastrophic decline. Assisted suicide, abortion, casualties of wars, and accelerating crime are all symptoms of God’s judgment.

Conviction of sin in the hearts of men is the necessary prerequisite for revival. But how will they hear without a preacher? Gospel tracts are basically patient, paper preachers calling men to repentance.

Some have testified that they read a tract, then tossed it into the trash. But the message had seared itself into their memory and years later, bore fruit in the middle of a time of distress.

Soul winners, we need to redouble our efforts. ■

Ethiopia

Missionary Ray Hoover has been passing Chick tracts in Amharic and Oromifa in Ethiopia. Recently, he sent us a picture of a torn tract, where someone had obviously gotten the message and didn't like it. He wrote: “We were passing out tracts and two young boys found this torn tract and were trying to read it. We found them on the road and began to speak to them. Praise God we are able to share the gospel with them. What someone tore up, God used to open up two little hearts.”

We just never know how the Lord is going to use a tract . . . but He does.

Germany

Missionary Mike Teague in Landstuhl, Germany received more Chick tracts. He writes: “Most of the German language tracts we have received from you are being distributed in house-to-house and door-to-door fashion in the Saarland Region of Germany. God has led us across the path of many Muslim people in Saarland, who, with rare exceptions, graciously receive a Chick tract from us. Also, Saarland is the #1 or #2 (depending on whose report you read) most professed Catholic state in Germany.”

Ivory Coast

We just recently sent 25,000 French Chick tracts to Missionaries Nathan and Hannah Schrock, and now another missionary family in Ivory Coast, Africa, Seth and Paige Cuthbertson, have requested Chick tracts for their work. Thanks for Missionaries Todd and Yola Eklund, always upbeat, are still busy passing tracts in Mexico City to people like this worker in a local mall. They have nearly finished passing out the over 200,000 tracts you provided!

Missionaries Mike and Mary Wallace serve among the 22 million people of Mexico City:

“After we spend time in an area passing out tracts, when we come back through, we often ask, ‘Did you get a tract?’ and if they say yes, we ask, ‘Did you read it?’ If they read it, usually they will allow us to witness to them. Many will then tell us, ‘I’ve been thinking about that [the gospel], because I read about it in the tract I just received.’ Some will even say, ‘I need Jesus as my Savior’ and are ready to get saved. After sharing the gospel a bit more with others, they are ready to get saved, and do so.”

South Africa

Missionary Mike Fluech challenged his church to hand out a tract a day in the month of May. He writes: “A lady in our church, Elizabeth, decided to go into a pharmacy in the mall and give tracts to all the employees. Afterwards, she asked if she could share the gospel with them at some point. The manager came out and told her that she was welcome to come every Wednesday morning from 8:00-8:30 to speak to all the employees about the Bible. Elizabeth’s work schedule doesn’t allow her to take advantage of this opportunity ... but mine does. So please pray that the word of the Lord has free course there. “

Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

Some very powerful people believe there are too many humans on earth. They don't want to reduce population growth—they want to reduce the population, period! And there is only one way to do that: kill them.

They love abortions because they can kill millions a year. But there's a problem: that gets rid of the younger, working class. They are the ones who take care of the old folk.

The old people are another problem for the rich powers-that-be. Already, there are becoming more older people than younger people to take care of them, since they are killing the children by abortion.

What is their answer? Kill them, too. They give it a nice name, "Euthanasia" (a "good death"). But there is nothing good about it. And everywhere that euthanasia becomes the practice, doctors later admit to killing up to a third of their patients, without their knowledge or consent. There is monetary incentive for them to kill them.

That's not a "good death." That's making the medical profession the devil's business.

Some say the older people have "no purpose." But God has purpose for every part of our lives. And aging reminds us of the fall of man, and our need for a whole new life, so we may go into eternity with God.

A lot of older people have lived long and have much wisdom. We can learn from that. Others haven't learned a thing, and need to be reminded of that Judgment Day coming up.

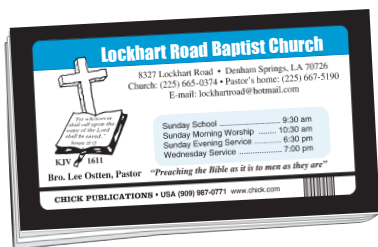

When you pass out tracts, please remember the older people. You may be God's appointed ambassador to help them face their sins before God, put their faith in Jesus, and receive an eternal life that no one can kill.

In Christ Jesus, and for His service,

David Daniels
