

The ‘Twin Towers’ of the Vatican

All false religions have to have props to focus their rituals. Roman Catholicism is no different. Their centerpiece is the wafer god, the “Eucharist.” The popes declare that ordained priests can hocus-pocus a simple wheat wafer into the actual “body, blood and divinity” of Jesus Christ. Faithful Catholics apparently just close their eyes (and suspend their reason) and “swallow” this bite of magic.

Next to the wafer is the Virgin Mary goddess. By another imposition on the gullibility of the unthinking, the humble maiden chosen

I Knew I Had No Excuse

By Michael D. Daniels

I was asked to drop off my younger siblings at the church to go door knocking on a Saturday morning, and I thought to myself, “Can I drop them off to go witnessing, and just leave, when I have nothing better to do?”

I had never gone witnessing before, but I knew I had no excuse, so I went. I was nervous, scared out of my wits, and could barely introduce myself as I handed them a flier at the door. Every doorbell I rang, my heart pounded, wondering if the person on the other side of the door was going to pull a shotgun on me—but I knew it pleased the Lord.

Our group finished our section in about an hour, and in spite of my difficulty, I knew that, after salvation, this was probably the

‘It Has Jesus In It!’

We are a family of ten (My husband and I with eight children who have grown up on Chick tracts). My husband found Chick tracts at phone booths and laundry mats growing up and they were seeds toward his salvation.

The children absolutely LOVE passing them out to people, and just reading them themselves! We had the privilege to meet up with our dear brethren out in Tulsa, Oklahoma as a sort of “missions” trip to not only visit them, but to go out on the streets each night to preach, hold up Bible signs and pass out Chick tracts as well.

In this picture our 5-year-old was at the rodeo passing them out, and she was so cute as she thoroughly enjoyed doing this! However, she couldn’t quite grasp the idea of some people turning her down (being just 5 years old). So, she would tell them in her sweet little voice, “But it has Jesus in it!” Few could resist her handing them a tract and saying, “It has JESUS IN IT!”

The kids all have tract wallets they keep on them wherever we go, and are “instant” in passing their Chick tracts out. We also see them pulling them out many times while in the car on our way to places just reading them themselves, or at home the younger ones asking the older ones to read them to them. It’s such a blessing to see! We even have a “tradition” around here where they get them for birthday presents since we run out of them often, and they get really excited to have their “stock” replenished then.

We had a drawer in my home growing up where there was a couple of them stashed away (probably from my uncle), and I would pull them out and read them, too. This is where I really started liking them. My favorites were Somebody Loves Me and This Was Your Life, and I’d read them over and over again!

My husband has had unbelievers at his work in the past practically fight over them and accuse each other of stealing their “booklets.” My husband would assure

Mormon Leadership Admits ‘Mistakes’

The new era of open communications has prompted a high-ranking member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (LDS) to come out admitting “mistakes” made by past leaders.

This “church” has experienced steady growth in the last two decades. World-wide membership stands now at about 15 million. Prominent members, such as U.S. presidential candidate Mitt Romney, have brought increased attention to the “church.” In recent years, Mormons have been held in high regard for their stable families and high moral standards.

Mormons led the fight in California against same-sex marriage related to Proposition 8.

Along with this increased attention has come exposure of some of their bizarre

New Comic Shows True Escape from Gangland

Several decades ago we began to lose our strong families. What did we get in return? One thing was Modern Street Gangs (MSGs). When a whole generation moved from the family farms and businesses to work in the factories in the cities, the children were left in a vacuum of idle leisure.

Youths from broken homes were left to run the neighborhoods and local gangs became their real families. Turf battles led to cycles of revenge and many dead bodies and broken lives resulted, as the new Crusaders Comic, Black Angel, shows.

New “businesses” sprang up, channeling marijuana, cocaine, heroin, etc., into the culture. These eventually came together in mafia-level organizations linking not just neighborhoods, but whole cities and adjacent countries. Mexico is nearly a failed state because of the massive drug cartels feeding the gangland drug market in the U.S.

Mike Ramey is the Chief Instructor of ‘The Gang Line’, a company that trains law enforcement and non-law enforcement clients in dealing with gang issues from a spiritual and criminal perspective. Ramey describes the evolution of the turf-war era of gangland to the evil octopus it has become: “The new chapter of the Modern Street Gang goes back to the year 2001 —the year the Twin Towers fell in New York City.

“Thanks to modern communications, an ever expanding Internet, and innovations such as Google, YouTube and Facebook, the gang member of today can recruit at will, cause havoc on a whim, and terrorize from the shadows. That’s why I have designated the gangs of today as ‘Modern Street Gangs’.

“Their attitude, bearing, aim and recruiting objectives from the top to the bottom are aimed at making money by any means necessary. Unlike their predecessors, MSGs are criminal enterprises and are NOT ashamed to be associated with crime; be it ‘blue collar’ or ‘white collar’. Gang members of today are equally adept at using a gun —or a computer.”

They often view themselves in religious terms. They have drawn up “constitutions,” using symbols and ceremonies from witchcraft, freemasonry, Catholicism, Islam and even the KJV Bible.

“The FIRST thing one should remember, a gang —ANY gang— is composed of individuals,” says Ramey. They “...are not scared of judges, politicians, reporters, cops, or social workers. However, hit them with the gospel of Jesus Christ and it will DESTROY them.”

And that is where the new Crusaders Comic fits in. In the story, Joey is out for revenge against a gang member who shot his mother during a burglary. Ex-gangster, “Peanut,” shows him a better way: forgiveness through submission to Jesus.

The comic shows how Peanut fought his way to the top of the neighborhood gang, and lost friends and relatives to the violence. But his life was still empty and he was a sitting duck —a high-profile target, the focus of the revenge of rival gangs.

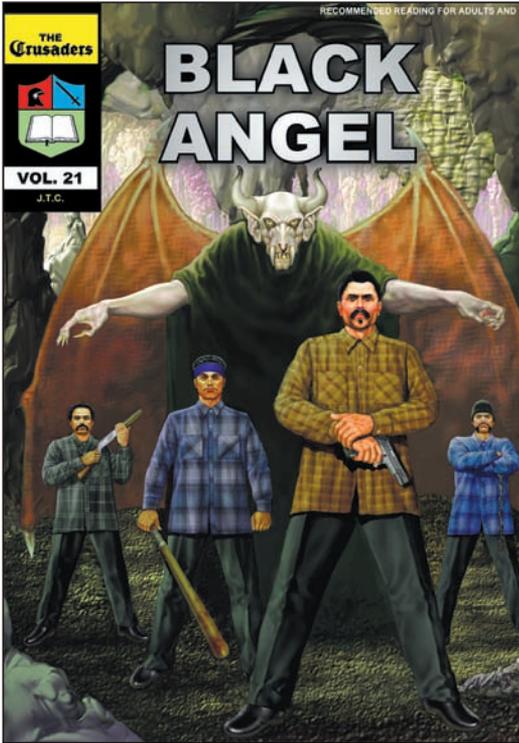

Along the way, ex-gangsters had shown him the way to salvation through Jesus, but he had rejected it until now. The rest of the story is his struggle against a heroin addiction, and the demon of revenge —to eventual peace in Jesus.

This is a true story of real men who lived in a real gangland. Those today caught in this cycle of tit-for-tat revenge will see themselves and understand Satan’s death trap —and Christ’s escape hatch to salvation and peace.

Many of the gangs are grouped by race or language and the story of the Black Angel is a good follow up for the line of black-art tracts and the Spanish language tracts already available from Chick Publications.

A Spanish version of Black Angel will be available in early 2014.

Mormon ‘Mistakes’...

teachings. The practice of excommunication and “shunning” of members who leave the fold has been highlighted by defecting scholars and disillusioned laymen who have taken to the internet to tell their stories.

20,000 members gathered recently in Salt Lake City, Utah to hear President Dieter F. Uchtdorf, second counselor in the first presidency. He told them (and millions more by telecast): “We openly acknowledge that in nearly 200 years of church history — along with an uninterrupted line of inspired, honorable and divine events — there have been some things said and done that could cause people to question.”

This seems mild, but for an organization’s leadership that normally portrays itself as infallible as the pope, it’s an extreme admission. But when a disfellowshipped member decides to go public, there are plenty of “mistakes” to expose.

It is important to note Mormonism’s subtle deception. In today’s chaotic culture, unbelievers (and disillusioned believers) live in a stew of confusion. With the legalization of sin, the campaign for freedom from religion, and schools and colleges turned into propaganda mills, many have simply fled to a false escape in entertainment, sports, drugs and alcohol, and pornography.

Along comes a warm, straight-arrow family that seems to have it all together, and the magnetism is overwhelming. Anyone lacking a strong biblical worldview will succumb to the sweet flavor of security without noticing the deadly spiritual arsenic included.

It is hard to grasp the magnitude of the “mistakes” of past Mormon leaders until you know something of the history of the movement.

Right from the beginning Joseph Smith, the founder, initiated the movement with his charismatic personality and a treasure chest full of lies. Born into a family of shady dealings, deeply involved in occult practices, he assembled a group of followers intrigued by his claim of access to a treasure of golden plates containing a message that updated the Bible. Witnesses were coerced into agreeing that they had seen the plates, but proof kept disappearing.

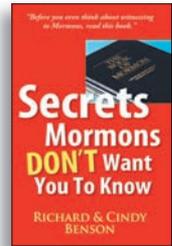

Smith finally claimed supernatural ability to “translate” the message of the plates and cobbled together the Book of Mormon using concepts from Freemasonry, the King James Bible, common folklore, witchcraft and personal fantasies.

After he and his accomplices were “run out of town” by several communities, Smith was shot in an attempted jail break while awaiting trial for destroying the print shop of a publication that dared expose him as a fraud.

This trail of “mistakes” eventually led to Salt Lake City, Utah, the present home of the LDS “church.”

Chick Publications counters the slick deception of this burgeoning cult with a Crusaders Comic, The Enchanter, and two paperback books. Answers to My Mormon Friends details historical and doctrinal “mistakes” of the Book of Mormon and other LDS “scriptures.” Secrets Mormons DON'T Want You To Know is co-authored by Cindy Benson, who grew up in a polygamous Mormon family, and highlights over a hundred unbiblical teachings of Mormonism.

Also available is the gospel tract, The Visitors, that exposes numerous unbiblical doctrines of Mormonism.

Gospel Seeds in Zambia Grow Flourishing Churches

Missionary Mike Dobbins and his family have worked for approximately 15 years in the country of Zambia. In 1998, he started work among the rural villages until he got a grasp of the local Bemba language. In February 2000 he moved to a city of 220,000 located in an area of copper mines.

His focus has been on tract distribution, training local pastors and establishing churches. He logs a total of 449,000 Chick tracts that he and local church teams have seeded into the area. This tally is only of the tracts in the local languages. They also keep a stock of Chinese, Hindi, and Afrikaans tracts for the international workers who come to the area.

"In all of the ministries, Chick tracts have truly been at the hub of our work," he writes.

Out of that effort, several churches are operating with local pastors and on a self-supporting basis. You can see from the pictures that the heart of their ministry is focused on the people and not the elaborate facilities.

Dobbins modestly points out that he has not used the "lone ranger method." He credits much of the growth of the gospel in that area to the diligent and dedicated local Christians. "My only regret is that we've not done more," he writes. "But humanly speaking, there have been many African brothers and sisters in Christ who have helped us in this work for Jesus Christ."

by the Holy Spirit to bring Jesus' body to birth, has been transformed into an enduring pagan goddess born without sin, excused from death, (and purgatory), and able to twist Jesus' arm to get forgiveness for the faithful.

Legends are essential to the promotion of such deception. The dream of Don Bosco, founder of the Salesian Society, anchors one of these legends. In 1862, Bosco described "seeing" the Vatican ship of state plowing a hostile sea surrounded by attackers. The battle was not going well for the pope as he manned the helm. In fact, one pope was killed in the fray and was immediately replaced by another.

Standing on a point of land, Bosco watched the Pope's flagship succeed in tying up between two towers standing in the ocean. Immediately the damage to the ship was healed and the attacking vessels began to disintegrate. Smaller vessels that had attempted to defend the pope's ship, also tie up to the towers and the sea becomes calm.

Atop one of the towers stood a symbol of the Eucharist and on the other, a statue of the Virgin Mary goddess. This dream has become a pivotal story in the Vatican's defense of the two central paganisms of Roman Catholicism.

It also illustrates a foundational truth about this prostitute "church" that exercises spiritual bondage over more than a billion deceived souls: Without the power of these two idols, Rome's deception would be gutted.

And how astounding is that deception! With a forked tongue, Catholicism claims to be founded on the Bible, yet, their "Magisterium" has done exactly what Does Your Church Have a Spanish Ministry?

Just as among English-speakers, Spanish Christians have begun to debate the question: “Which Spanish Bible is really God’s words, with nothing changed or removed?”

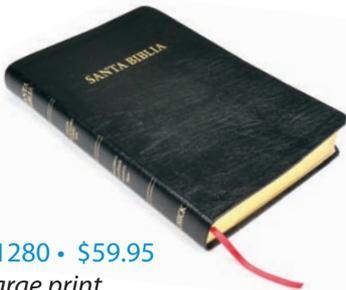

Chick Spanish tracts use the Reina-Valera-Gomez Bible (RVG), which is 100% based upon the original Textus Receptus, just like the King James in English. Make sure you give your Spanish-speaking believers a Bible they can really trust!

most biblical thing that I had ever done. The thought that Jesus was looking down from heaven happy with what I had just done, was unspeakable. I decided that I wanted to do this the rest of my life. I had finally taken the next step in my relationship with my Father in heaven.

The next week the group was out, I was there. I had no real ability to speak to people. I was not wise with words, but I was not going to let that stop me from sharing my Jesus, and make Him happy with me. By the fourth week I got to see my first soul get saved.

I was touched to see this woman receive Jesus, standing in her doorway, broken by the word of God. Her mother had been working on her for years, but it took a nineteen-year-old boy to finally lead her to the Saviour. I could see her mother rejoicing and dancing around the room behind her. There is no going back after that. I told God, “I want to do this the rest of my life.”

Since I committed to the Lord that I would share His word as He commanded us, the scriptures have opened to me. I came back to the word of the Lord with thirst I had never known. I actually felt that I needed God’s word now. I had never felt that before. I now had questions about the Bible, about doctrine, and what I could use when witnessing. My passion, understanding, and boldness in the word of God only grew after that.

I found that it wasn’t awkward at all to walk up to people and try to talk with them about what happens after they die, and if they didn’t want to talk, maybe at least they would take a tract with them. I’m now in college and try to share the gospel with at least one person a day, and every day I go out, my thirst for the word of God grows.

People tell me that they couldn’t do what I do now, but it was no profound calling. There was no beam from heaven with a voice that said “Preach the gospel.” It was Mark 16:15 that left me without excuse: “...Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.” I knew that I had no excuse; I had to go. The fact that I wasn’t eloquent of speech or bold didn’t make any difference. I knew the Lord commanded us to go. So I went without ability or understanding, and my life has been changed ever since.

It all started when I was only a nineteen-year-old boy who knew he had nothing better to do on a Saturday than to preach the gospel or hand out a tract.

Many Christians want to provide Chick tracts to missionaries.

We can help!

We maintain an account called:
The Chick Mission Fund

Although we are not legally structured to give tax-deductible receipts, we definitely know how to get literature into missionaries' hands. They often write to us asking if anyone can help them get Chick tracts.

The Mission Fund provided tracts for this church's mission's project to Cambodia:

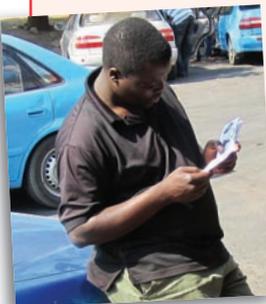

"Just wanted to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the tracts you prepared for us to use in Cambodia.

In this trip we used your tracts as the visual target for eye glass exams, for we had no Bibles available. We did 950 eye exams, 675 came to know the Lord. We fitted people with glasses and afterwards we would say to them, "Now that you have the gift of physical vision, how would you like the gift of spiritual vision?" Then that person would share the gospel with them.

We also shared in Phnom Pehn when riding in the tuk tuks going down the roads as it was easy to pass out [tracts] because the streets are very narrow and tight there." R.S.

100% of the funds you send to the Chick Mission Fund are used to ship literature to missionaries.

We receive requests frequently from missionaries who need your help. Just during recent months, shipments have been provided for:

Brazil
Tanzania
Hungary
Zambia

How Do You ‘Add’ to God’s Words?

By David W. Daniels

A recent reader of my book, Look What’s Missing, wrote with a question about the other half of the formula: “What’s been added?” We could simply say that adding to and taking away from His words are pretty self-explanatory: If we take away His words, then there are less words. If we add to His words, there are more words.

But if we change His words, there are two things going on: 1) God’s words were removed; 2) man’s words were added. So, when the Bible says the way is “narrow” that leads to life, in Matthew 7:14, those are God’s words. When the New King James, for instance, changes “narrow” to “difficult,” two things have happened. God’s clear word “narrow” was removed. Man’s opinion, “difficult,” was added.

And the doctrine is changed. Now the way to life is “difficult,” according to the NKJV, the Common English Bible, the Holman Christian Standard, the NET Bible, the New Living Translation, and the Revised Patriarchal Greek Orthodox New Testament, (“hard” in the ESV, Catholic New Jerusalem Bible, New Revised Standard, and the RSV; “full of trouble” in God’s Word to the Nations).

Can you think of any reason why taking away “narrow” and adding “difficult” could cause any trouble for someone seeking salvation?

What about Jesus’ words in Matthew 11:28-30? “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

Or Mark 10:13-16? “And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them: and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeased, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them.”

Is Jesus making it easy or difficult to come to Him, the Way, the Truth and the Life? (John 14:6)

The way is narrow. There’s only one way to heaven, and people only go to heaven one at a time. But that’s nothing like someone making it difficult to enter heaven. There’s a big difference between passing through a turnstile and climbing over a roadblock.

Truly, it is very dangerous to add man’s words. As He, Himself, inspired these words: Proverbs 30:5-6: “Every word of God is pure: he is a shield unto them that put their trust in him. Add thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar.”

Jesus In It...

them that he’d bring more. He gave a tract assortment to one man and the next day he came to work with bloodshot eyes and said HE STAYED UP ALL NIGHT READING EVERY SINGLE ONE AND COULDN’T GET A WINK OF SLEEP until he finished the stack!!

Jesus accused the Pharisees of, that they had “made the commandment of God of none effect” with their tradition. (See Matt. 15:6.) For centuries, popes fought with sword and torch to keep the Bible away from their people. Now they have succeeded in revising the Bible to instill universal doubt in its reliability. Thus, men turn again to the priests for final authority.*

If Catholics were convinced that they had truth in their Bible, they would read it and realize that their “church” was conning them into bondage to baptized paganism and sending them over the precipice into hell.

To swallow the idea that a simple chip of wheat bread can magically become the actual body of the Son of God defies all logic and smacks of cannibalism. To claim that the humble virgin mother of Jesus can hear millions of prayers all at once from all over the globe and plead each case before the throne of God, is equally astounding. This elevation of her to goddess level elbows Jesus, the true, divine, Advocate Redeemer, aside —the ultimate of brazen blasphemy.

In the new tract, Twin Towers, Jack Chick attempts to rescue the precious souls who were either born into this deception or have bought into it for whatever reason. The tract shows that the only way is for Rome’s captives to “come out” of the pope’s idolatry and trust Jesus, alone, for salvation.

“I serve together with my wife and 11-year-old daughter in full time ministry as house parents of an orphanage which is run by my church. These children are from orphaned, neglected, abandoned and abused backgrounds.

“As a child back in the 70’s, reading these tracts has put the fear of God in me. And because of this, after getting to read these tracts, it has begun to put the fear of God in [my daughter] too, that at this age of 11 she has made up her mind to be a pastor when she grows up. The reason she tells me is because she does not want anyone to miss out on our Lord Jesus Christ’s saving grace. Now the rest of my children are also seriously considering to enter full time ministry serving the Lord. I don’t know if I would ever be able to see you personally in this lifetime, but I hope to see you in heaven when we are all called into His glory one day. Brother, may our Lord Jesus Christ bless you and your family exceedingly and abundantly all the days of your life. Amen.”

A MESSAGE FROM JACK CHICK...

Dear ones in Christ:

Good grief, not another tract exposing the Great Whore! Yes, because when Alberto Rivera, the ex-Jesuit priest, was dying, I made him a promise: I would try to get the message out to the millions of sincere Roman Catholics to warn them that they will miss heaven, and that the religious machine they are trapped in is not their salvation. It claims to be the only hope they have to get to heaven, teaching “damnable heresies” (II Peter 2:1) —which are lies out of hell.

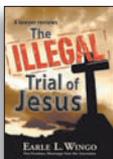

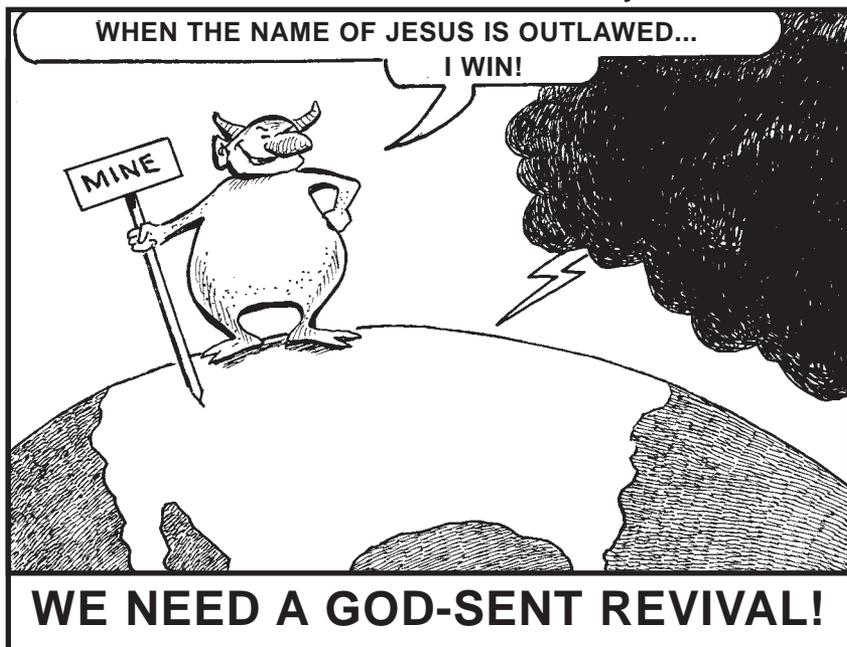

Jesus Christ is down-played, and Catholicism is exalted. Rome knows this, but doesn't care about souls. It's a giant, money-making farce, controlling world politics and governments, intending to pull all religions under its wings. Deceived leaders trek to Rome to see that antichrist who pretends to be God on earth. This pope is a great actor, like Pope John Paul II. Be mighty careful. This one is a Jesuit.

No Roman Catholic will make it into glory unless he realizes he's been brainwashed. Forget Mary, the Saints, Tradition and all the phony show business. They can't save anyone. It was God Almighty, Jesus Christ, the King of kings who died on the cross to wash away our sins. We can only be saved by turning to Him, alone, trusting Him as our personal Saviour.

And that, beloved, is why I make those hard-hitting tracts to try to crack that shield that the pope has encased around his slaves, to open their eyes and set them free. You will be surprised at how readily precious Roman Catholics will accept these tracts. Let's love them with the truth before it's too late!
